PLHCP Comments: None

Recommended limitations on the miner’s use of a respirator.: N/A

Yes – The exam has met MSHA requirements

Yes, The above worker is fit for duty to wear the above identified respirator. This fit for duty approval is based a on the medical questionnaire answers, the identified working conditions and/or an in person exam of the worker. The worker is required to inform their supervisor if their physical health changes which may warrant another medical exam to ensure they may safely wear a respirator.

Frequency of Medical Exam : Annually

If you should experience a change in weight of more than 20lbs or lose 20 lbs then your facial features may have changed, which can impact your respirator seal. A respirator fit test may be needed because the facial changes may impact your tight seal and your ability to be protected from toxic chemicals or particulates. We want you to stay safe and healthy while wearing a respirator and encourage you to be re-fit tested whenever your facial features are changing. If this happens, you should stop wearing the respirator and speak with your supervisor or your company’s safety director about these changes and whether a new fit test is necessary. If you have any questions regarding your medical approval and ability to safely wear and use your respirator please feel free to contact us.
